Autobiography

My name is Serhii and I am 21 years old. My height is 190 cm and weight is 78 kg. I live in a small village called Luhynu. I have a family of four people. My parents work as a nurse and an electrician at a local hospital. My younger sister is still a student.

I've been working on the ground since childhood. My family has always lived in the village and never moved. I always helped my parents on their small farm with two cows, pigs and poultry. So I decided to associate my professional activity with veterinary medicine. I really like to work with animals. I even stayed home after school for a year to help my father manage our household.

In 2016 I continued getting an education. I entered Agrarian lyceum, the veterinary department. I always dreamed of being a vet, so I really enjoyed lessons. I currently have a veterinarian diploma, got it in 2019.

From May 2018 to May 2019, I trained at a dairy farm in Denmark. I worked with cows and calves there. I fulfilled such specific duties at the farm:

- feeding and taking care of cows and calves,
- milking with a milking machine,
- moving animals,
- cleaning and disinfection of the farm and equipment.

Practice in Denmark has given me the necessary skills to work with dairy cows, and now I am looking for opportunities to learn more in this area.

As for my driving skills, I can drive a car well.

I speak good English.

My main hobby is animal care, but also I prefer reading books. Besides, I am an active person and always try to play sports.

I see my future in veterinary medicine. That is why I want to get a job on a dairy farm in Finland, one of the most developed countries in this area.

Regards,

Serhii
